

Id	Extract 4
original	The Supreme Court as the apex court of India has the responsibility to see the smooth functioning of the entire judicial system, so it looks after the administration of all courts of the country and regulates their functioning. It decides on the procedures that have to be adopted and the methods to make the system efficient and effective for all. All decisions and decrees of the Supreme Court are kept as records for future reference. Important decisions in landmark cases of the High Court are also kept as records to raise as points of reference in other cases. One of the important reasons why the Supreme Court is called the 'Custodian of the Constitution is that it has the power to examine the validity of the laws made by the Union and State Legislatures. In case, any law violates the spirit of the Constitution, the Supreme Court can declare it null and void.
A	The Supreme Court as the apex court of India has the responsibility to see the smooth functioning of the entire judicial system, so it looks after the administration of all courts of the country and regulates their functioning. Important decisions in landmark cases of the High Court are also kept as records to raise as points of reference in other cases. One of the important reasons why the Supreme Court is called the 'Custodian of the Constitution is that it has the power to examine the validity of the laws made by the Union and State Legislatures. In case, any law violates the spirit of the Constitution, the Supreme Court can declare it null and void.
B	The Supreme Court of India, as the highest court in the country, is responsible for the smooth functioning of the entire judicial system, so it looks after the administration of all courts of the country and regulates their functioning. It decides on the rules that must be followed and how the system should work. Important decisions from the High Court are also kept as records so that other people can reference them in other cases. If a law violates the Constitution's spirit, the Supreme Court can declare it to be null and void.
C	As the highest court in the country, the Supreme Court of India has the responsibility to see that the entire judicial system is working properly. It looks after all courts in the country and regulates their work. Important decisions from the High Court are also kept as records so that other people can reference them in other cases. One of the important reasons why the Supreme Court is called the "Custodian of the Constitution" is because it can check if the laws made by the state and federal governments are true. If a law violates the Constitution, the Supreme Court can declare it is not allowed to be made.
D	The Supreme Court as the apex court of India has the responsibility to see the smooth functioning of the entire judicial system, so it looks after the administration of all courts of the country and regulates their functioning. It decides on the procedures that have to be adopted and the methods to make the system efficient and effective for all. In case, any law violates the spirit of the Constitution, the Supreme Court can declare it null and void. One of the important reasons why the Supreme Court is called the 'Custodian of the Constitution is that it has the power to examine the validity of the laws made by the Union and State Legislatures.
E	The Supreme Court of India, as the highest court in the country, is responsible for the smooth functioning of the entire judicial system, so it looks after the administration of all courts of the country and regulates their functioning. It decides on the rules that must be followed and how the system should work. Important decisions from the High Court are also kept as records so that other people can reference them in other cases. If a law violates the Constitution's spirit, the Supreme Court can declare it to be null and void.
F	The Supreme Court as the apex court of India has the responsibility to see the smooth functioning of the entire judicial system , so it looks after the administration of all courts of the country and regulates their functioning . It decides on the methods . The procedures have to be adopted . Important decisions in landmark cases of the High Court are also kept as records to raise as points of reference in other cases . Any law violates the spirit of the Constitution , the Supreme Court can declare it null and void .